

BUSINESS

Celebrating women

Phoenixville Hospital's Healthy Woman event promotes business partnerships

Special to The Mercury

PHOENIXVILLE — More than 350 women and representatives from 58 businesses and nonprofit organizations attended the Phoenixville Hospital Healthy Woman Program's 4th Anniversary Celebration and Business Expo on Tuesday at Rivercrest Golf Club.

Best-selling author and Philadelphia Inquirer "Chick Wit" columnist Lisa Scottoline provided the sold-out crowd with a rousing keynote address.

The evening kicked off with a 90-minute business expo that showcased 58 businesses and nonprofit organizations and offered attendees networking opportunities and access to community resources.

Scottoline began her presentation by saying she was pleased to "honor the connections between the women in the room." Her address included stories about her road to becoming an author and insight on where she gets the ideas for her novels.

"It was an amazing event that fostered business and community partnerships and allowed the attendees the chance to build new relationships and strengthen existing ones, said Anna Mae Galbraith, director of Community Health Education and Healthy Woman Coordinator at Phoenixville Hospital. "The highlight of our program this year was Lisa Scottoline's insightful and humorous presentation that really spoke to the women in the audience and ended the evening in a fantastic way."

Major event partners included: Phoenixville Hospital medical staff, Rivercrest Golf Club, Broker, Cramer, Swanson, Goldberg & Actor ENT/Allergy, Women's Health Care Group of PA-Valley Forge OB/GYN, Sub-
(See EXPO on B2)

Photo courtesy Phoenixville Hospital
Guest speaker Lisa Scottoline, center, a bestselling author, with the program's coordinators, Dr. Amy Jane Cadleux and Anna Mae Galbraith.

Kevin Hoffman/The Mercury

Going through the dinner buffet above and at top right are some of the 350 attendees of the Phoenixville Hospital's Healthy Woman Program 4th Anniversary Celebration & Business Expo Tuesday at Rivercrest Golf Club.

Healthy Woman event promotes partnerships

(EXPO from B1)

urban Geriatrics, Gateway Pharmacy, Plastic Surgery Specialists, The Philadelphia Hand Center, PMSI, Kimberton Chiropractic, and PMA Medical Specialists.

The Healthy Woman Anniversary event is a celebration of women who are members of Phoenixville Hospital's Healthy Woman Program. Through monthly educational programs and online access to health-related information, these women are proactive and interested in their health and the health of their loved ones. The program is free to join and has more than 1,000 members.

For more information about the Phoenixville Hospital Healthy Woman program, call 610-983-1288 or visit phoenixvillehospital.com