Phoenixville Hospital Auxiliary

The Phoenixville Hospital Auxiliary, through the efforts of its members, serves and supports the goals of the Phoenixville Hospital as the staff meets the health care needs of our community.

Commitment

The opportunities and programs have changed over the years, but the dedication and focus remains: solid and enthusiastic support, ongoing availability to help and a deep commitment to the betterment of community health and welfare. Over its 112 years, the Auxiliary has contributed over $1.7 million and countless hours to Phoenixville Hospital.

Benefits & Activities

Looking for ways to give back to Phoenixville Hospital and the community? Bring your talents to the Auxiliary as we join together in fellowship.

- Annual fundraising activities, including hospital lobby sales and Holiday Bazaar
- Six Auxiliary meetings per year
- Two social functions per year

Structure

The Auxiliary is organized exclusively for the charitable support of Phoenixville community non-profit organizations by such purposes as defined by section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Law of the United States.

History

In May 1889, a call was made for the ladies of the town to meet for the purpose of organizing a Women's Auxiliary for the new hospital; 20 ladies responded. Since that time, the women, and now men, of the Auxiliary have given their time and talents on fund-raising activities to help support various hospital and community programs.

Bookworm

The Bookworm sells donated books at reasonable prices to the public. Operated by the Phoenixville Hospital Auxiliary, the bookstore has been in existence since 1958 and at its current location, 822 Main Street in Phoenixville Pa., since 1982. With its stained glass windows and grand oak staircase, the stately Victorian house provides a welcoming setting for browsing.

The books are organized by genre and subject. There are children's books, fiction, mystery, science fiction and romance sections, as well as specialty rooms for the classics, history, religion and many other topics. Several shelves even feature collectible treasures. The estimated inventory is between 80,000 and 100,000 volumes at any given time!

Donations of unsoiled books can be made by appointment with the manager by calling 610-983-9144.

Employees and Senior Circle members receive a 10% discount with ID or membership card.
